TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1914.

The Bank of England rate has dropped to three per cent. The Londoners will soon be doing what to do with their money.

United States military officers along the Mexican border have undertaken to teach the constitutional leaders the ethics of civilized warfare. The need is large, but the pupils are not promising.

Huerta has landed three more leaders of the opposing factions in jail. That financial blockade seems to be about as slow in producing the desired results as the Edmonton street railway system.

Premier Roblin says he is opposed to votes for women, because a woman's place is in the home. On the same principle he should be opposed to votes for men, because a man's place is on the farm or in the office or shop.

The militiamen are now after the Bishop of London because he does not uphold their contention that forcible feeding is a cruel and painful operation. No doubt they would have been equally angry if he had declared that voluntary starvation was a foolish and sinful act. Anyone who is not ready on demand to laud the militants as martyrs must expect to have his hair pulled, figuratively at least.

California, world-famous for its climate, has experienced a deluge which took a toll of a dozen lives and destroyed millions of dollars' worth of property. About this time last year the citrus crop of the state was ruined by frost. Alberta has had the same experience, though the snow and winter weather California is supposed to provide as a regular thing, and since then have experienced nothing worse than a cold snap which caused them to hunt up their fur coats and shovel a little more coal into the furnaces. If the boasting and boasting were subtracted from the climate of California and added to that of Alberta it would be found that those who winter in Alberta do not have much to lament.

The Journal says a contemporaneous misrepresentation of its opinions on the Krafchenko escape. Having been previously accused of the offence, the Bulletin assumes that this general observation is intended to be understood as applying to itself. In this case, the truth is that no misrepresentation was intended, or made, and the Journal is invited to bring its statement of supposed injustice down to details. The Krafchenko escape is not a matter of astounding importance to Edmonton newspaper readers, but it would perhaps be interesting to journal readers to learn what that paper thinks of the administration of law in the Province of Alberta.

In the hope of eliciting this information the Bulletin a fortnight since invited the Journal to consider comparatively the energy displayed in capturing and recapturing the murderer of the Plum Coulee bank manager and the seeming total want of energy toward the apprehension of the murderer of Andrew Hargreaves.

The information not forthcoming, the question is here repeated, in hope that better success may result: Supposing Krafchenko had killed the obscure citizen Andrew Hargreaves in Edmonton instead of having killed a banker and robbed the bank at Plum Coulee, does the Journal think a reward of $10,000 would have been offered for the capture?

The head of the L.W.W. defines a "scab" unemployed man as being one who accepts a chance to earn his bread. The "genuine" unemployed, are those who when offered such chance refuse it, and continue to sponge on those who are fools enough to work. These definitions seem to be altogether in keeping with the general theory and practice of the organization.

Ex-Chief Carpenter asked for a judicial investigation into the charges made against the police department by the Mayor and Alderman Clarke. No doubt other members of the force want a chance to expose themselves. What is supposed to have been a prior to that must stand up in the allegations in question stand against the name of every man connected with the department. Any of these who do not enter protest are liable to incur suspicion. The time to lodge the protest and demand a hearing is right now.

The Camora gazette says the Bulletin is guilty of "plain, ordinary hypocrisy." It suggests that the raters ought to be held to account when it comes to the police department. Just what it means by this, other than the no doubt can did opinion that the Bulletin is a "blackguard," the gazette does not seem to know. No one, who demands that the lid be kept open on what they are doing means. Without doubt it is their straightforward, dead earnest determination that the history and present condition of the department shall be a closed book to the public.

Farmers in the Namao district wait that village connected with the city by a electric railway. The project is one from which the city would benefit greatly, as it is not clear which the city can take as a municipal enterprise. Until the financial results are reversed the raters of the city are hard up hand all on the radial railway problem he wants or can afford. There is an opportunity in this proposal for private enterprise to provide a very useful service, and one which should be profitable to all concerned.

Legislature empowering the Provincial Government to assist precisely such enterprises as that in question. With this assistance it should be possible to interest capital and bring the project into existence, to the mutual benefit of the farmers, the city and the investors.

Hasty and violent methods he speak urgency. That the dismissal of ex-Chief Carpenter was both hasty and violent in method can hardly be denied. The moral is that it was not considered possible to head off by other means inquiry into police and criminal conditions.

It is for the court to say whether the cause of the police and the community will be successful.

Of Mr. Carpenter's case as chief of police there has been a sharp difference of opinion. Of the manner of his dismissal there can be only one opinion among fair-minded men. Advanced in years, and with a reputation for integrity not previously called into question, he is entitled to the greatest consideration.

BAPTISTS DO MUCH WORK AMONG NON-ENGLISH IN CANADA

Say They do More Than All Other Denominations of the West Together

STRONG RESOLUTION ON SEGREGATION

Want Amendments For Heavier Sentences on Male and Female Offenders

(From Morning Edition)
REGINA, Feb. 2.—A statement to the effect that the Non-English population is doing more work among the non-English speaking people of Canada than all the other work formed one of the features of the very many afternoon. It was the outcome of a discussion open to the public at a luncheon of $15,000, during the year 1913 for work among the various non-English speaking people of Canada. Besides passing the estimates for this year, various resolutions were adopted and a strong resolution on segregation was decided upon. One resolution criticized the government of Saskatchewan for its failure to give attention to the School Act, another urged upon the members of the church the study of social evil and outlined a plan for getting the church to take a more active part when dealing with the subject.

Resolution on School Act

With regard to the school question concerning the School Act, it was explained that the recent amendment to the act was a good one, but it was disease, but with a tenacity to become infectious. The resolution to prevent this.

"Resolved, that this union strongly disapproves of the action of the legislative committee in its report on the amendment to the School Act and the school assessment as contained in section 3, chapter 42, and that we shall go to support the public school if he so wishes, and in reality makes a contribution to the maintenance of such taxes in a faith worthy manner."

A Radical Resolution

What was to be the most radical resolution ever presented by a religious denomination was adopted at this, the final meeting of the session, in the form of a resolution on segregation. In substance, it comprises the following principles:

"Resolved, that the latest and whitest word of medical and social science is in harmony with the teachings of the New Testament in the system of segregation of the social evil, but it is resolved that we urge upon the government of Saskatchewan a study of the subject from the hygienic and economic as well as the moral and religious standpoints, and give a clear and intelligent statement in the overthrow of what is practically a scientific heresy."

Recommendations to be Made

Recommendations will be made to the Dominion government pointing out the need of a more stringent punishment for the crime of social evil in order to check the ravages of an evil which has been allowed to increase to a point where it becomes a national pest.

The committee, after a long and arduous session, recommended to the government, while Edward Aspinwall, the Regal Hotel, bowed very respectfully before the platform, that he be allowed to continue in his present position as manager of the hotel.

Mr. Aspinwall, a doctor, showed much restraint, while Edward Aspinwall, the Regal Hotel, bowed very respectfully before the platform, that he be allowed to continue in his present position as manager of the hotel.

The Future Houses

The committee will also request the Dominion government to make it possible to examine female offenders in some institution by determining the indeterminate sentence, as it is also requested that male offenders be imprisoned without the option of a fine.
